

The diagram illustrates a clear flow of responsibility: measurements collected by the VitalMonitor feed into the AlertGenerator, which applies its rules to decide whether to create an Alert and simultaneously updates the patient's history in the PatientDigitalProfile. Each Alert is then handed off to the AlertManager, which packages and routes the notification, finally delivering it to external devices or interfaces (StuffDevices) for staff notification.